In My "So-Called" Adult Life - Return of the Commander, we follow the failure and redemption of Brandon, a wedding videographer who desperately seeks to prove he's worth more than his current profession.

Synopsis

If Charlie Brown had grown up, he'd probably be a lot like Brandon. He's a thirty-year-old man-child whose dreams of becoming an artistic success have been thwarted in the biggest way possible- he's the lowest of the low in the creative industry... a wedding videographer! Haunted by visions of his 5-year-old self crying at what he's become, Brandon is ready to give up all hope, until one day he gets a mysterious phone call from his childhood mentor, "Commander" Mark Kistler. Brandon's world rapidly unravels, and a wacky plot involving killer mecha-zoid robots and time travel ensues. Featuring the voice of Mark Kistler of The Secret City and The Imagination Station, the half-hour pilot episode of the My "So-Called" Adult Life series is sure to strike a chord with anyone who ever wonders when their "big break" will finally come along.

Viewer Responses

“This is soooooo coool!!!!!!!!!!!!!! You are a genius!!!!!! I love it!!!!!!”

-Mark Kistler, The Secret City and The Imagination Station

“I love the tone, imagery and edgy quality.”

-Robert Neustadt, Executive Producer The Imagination Station

“Those musical numbers cracked my ass up man. The only thing to do know is get it into the right hands.”

-Pat Kondelis, Producer Round Mountain Productions

“I loved every bit of it! From the art to the narration to the plot to the 'flow' of it to the music and song! All of it!!”

-Brian Leonard, Cartoonist, NC

“Loved the deeper message of the story. It is subject matter that anyone can relate to. Writing something that is identifiable across a broad spectrum is extremely difficult to accomplish. I think everyone wishes they could go back and speak to themselves as a child in order to reassure them.”

-Matt Hadcock, Attorney at Law, TX
